EXTEND SPEAKS AT INTERNATIONAL ACCOUNTS PAYABLE PROFESSIONALS (IAPP) ANNUAL CONFERENCE

04.23.2009 — SILVER SPRING, MARYLAND

Extend's Keri Bittner, managing director, and Ryan Beacham, accounts payable process manager were invited to speak at IAPP's 19th annual forum, IAPP University, which was held April 19-23 in Orlando, Florida at Disney's Coronado Springs Resort. The presentation, entitled "Accounts Payable Outsourcing for Companies of All Sizes," focused on strategies that companies can use to build a business case for payables process automation.

IAPP is a nonprofit member association committed to the advancement and support of individuals in the accounts payable (AP) profession. IAPP University, the association's annual forum, is the industry's largest gathering of AP, finance and accounting professionals.

"In today's environment, businesses look carefully at ways to conserve capital, reduce costs and improve operating efficiency," said Bittner. "Our presentation explores some of the financial options that organizations have to optimize their AP processes and achieve process improvements in the purchase-to-pay cycle. IAPP University is a great forum for sharing some of the best practices Extend has developed in working with many different organizations."

Specific topics addressed in the presentation include:

- The AP process automation tolls that can be in-sourced, outsourced and co-sourced
- Quantitative benefits analysis and corporate case studies to illustrate various options and their associated return on investment and payback metrics
- Implementation challenges of co-sourcing, and proper management techniques.
